BERETTA GALLERY - NEW YORK

Established in the heart of New York’s Madison Avenue in 1995, the façade of the flagship Beretta Gallery has undergone a complete facelift for the new Millennium. Modeled after the Beretta home in Gardone Val Trompia, and embodying the traditional values of its residents, the stone for the New York Gallery’s new hand-chiseled, white and gray façade was extracted from local quarries and delivered from Italy to the United States.

In addition to an entire floor dedicated to the full line of long guns, including one-of-a-kind, hand-made premium shotguns and express rifles, within the impressive three-story Gallery passionate sportsmen will also find an extensive book selection filled with important works by the best writers and photographers of hunting and outdoors subjects.

Please note that, due to New York City laws, the New York Gallery does not carry handguns.

The Beretta 80X Cheetah reimagines the legendary platform, with a new sleek design and enhanced features. Ergonomically redesigned for modern day carry, the 80X Cheetah includes a smaller Vertec style grip profile, the X-treme S Double/Single trigger, skeletonized hammer, a 13+1 round capacity, and comes optics-ready out of the box.

Glad to see one of the classics brought back in a modern format. However, like most, I'm not getting into 380, I can't justify getting a weaker and more expensive cartridge when everything else is in 9mm. I would love to see a 9mm variant of the 80X, or a shrunk down 92 variant with the same dimensions. Not sure what kind of design changes that would entail, but it would definitely be popular. I love the size, controls, and features, just not the cartridge.

Great .. I like hand guns with an external hammer yet.. It can be costly to add an optic to the older model guns. Nice to see a Modern version .

Love that Beretta came out with this beauty again. Unfortunately the gun store I work at is not going to carry this firearm. They dislike Beretta. I asked to special order one they said no. So I am gonna go to our competition and buy one. See sig.smith and now Springfield gives points to how many you sell so the salesman get free stuff.

Introducing the next evolution of the 90 Series – the 92Xi. The 92Xi brings the long-awaited frame mounted safety to the standard 92 family of products, as well as a single action only variant and various ergonomic enhancements. Featuring a flat trigger profile for consistent engagement, a lightweight skeletonized hammer, Vertec style frame built for comfort, heavily-checked frame, fiber optic front sight for faster sight acquisition, and the option for MRDS optics mounting makes this a high performing, reliable choice for personal defense and competition.

I've got one of the standard XI's. I do enjoy it and like it but the accessory rail won't accommodate a Surefire X300. Looks like too much material left on the front face of the trigger guard. Other than that it's a great version. Wish the included mags were a little better quality, followers seem to want to stick in them sometimes. Great handgun though.
